Course Description

This is a required course for students majoring in Sociology. This course is intended as an introduction to classical sociological theory. In addition to serving as a prerequisite for SOCI 333, Contemporary Sociological Theory, classical sociological theory provides an introduction to: research areas, issues of concern, theories, methods, and concepts that continue to significantly influence contemporary sociology more generally.
Course Objectives/Learning Outcomes

At the end of this course, students should have knowledge and understanding of:

- The dominant theoretical approaches in classical sociological theory.
- How these different approaches relate to each other and to developments in contemporary society.

This course should also enhance students’ ability to:

- To theorize in a critical and analytical manner about social life.
- Write clearly and cogently about classical social theory.
- Make a contribution to existing debates in classical sociological theory by fashioning and defending their own arguments

Theory and Theorizing

In this course it is essential that students engage in a theoretical manner with the course material in their participation and writing. It is essential that students not merely describe and summarize the readings. A theoretical analysis seeks to abstract certain key ideas, arguments, concepts from the specific content of a text and then reconstructs the arguments, ideas, or concepts in such a way that we are able to better grasp the relations between different ideas and concepts. This process of abstraction and reconstruction may be for the purpose of: better understanding a specific concept of a theorist (such as Weber’s “rationalization” or Durkheim’s “anomie”); better understanding the relation between the different concepts of a specific thinker (such as how Marx’s theory of class relates to his theory of value); or better understanding the relation between two thinkers’ conception of social reality (such as the connection between Marx’s understanding of “alienation” and Durkheim’s “social facts”). This improved understanding through the process of abstraction and reconstruction may be for such purposes such as: (1) helping to better understand the theorist’s work in their own terms, (2) critiquing the work of the thinker, or (3) identifying how to apply the basic theories of a thinker to a very different context than the one for which they were originally formulated.

Required Textbooks, Readings, Materials, Electronic Resources

- Some Readings on D2L

Students are expected to bring the readings to the lectures to discuss the material.

Methods of Assessment and Grading Weights Participation: 5%
Mid-term: 30% (October 21st, 2019)
Term Paper: 35% (Due Nov 20, 2019 in class)
Final Exam: 30% (December 13th, 2019 at 4pm via D2L)

Course Participation
Students are expected to regularly attend the lectures and to have completed the readings prior to the Friday lecture. It is important that each student be prepared to contribute to the discussion of the readings, both for their own learning and for the benefit of the class as a whole.

Mid-Term (in-class)
The mid-term will take place during class and will be on the readings and lectures of the first seven weeks of the course.

Theory Paper
The final term paper is a core component of assessment for this course. The term paper assignment is intended to enable students to develop a substantive theoretical paper and to further develop the skills associated with this task. The readings in this course are intended to provide an in-depth introduction to many of the key debates in classical sociological theory. The final term paper involves a comparison or contrast of the key ideas of two key thinkers in this course. This paper is due in the eleventh week of class. Students are heavily encouraged to plan ahead and consult with the instructor regarding their proposed essay topic. The paper involves a comparison or contrast of the key ideas of two key thinkers in the course. This paper should be 2000 words with 10% (i.e. 200 words allowance) on either side. In comparing the two thinkers students are encouraged not just find differences in terms of focus, but in particular points of agreement and disagreement which in turn generate similarity or differences in the respective theorists.

Submission and Late Policy
The term paper is to be handed in as a hard copy in class to the course instructor the day of class that it is due. The paper will receive a late penalty of FIVE (5) MARKS PER FULL OR PART DAY (a weekend counts as two full days). Any paper more than one (1) week late without a valid extension will receive a mark of zero (0). Accommodations are unlikely to be allowed for late entry other than illness or another serious and documented situation – talk to me prior to the deadline. Take-home exams that are late will receive a mark of F.

Final Exam
The final exam will be a take-home. It will cover the entire course material, both readings and lectures. Proper citation practice must be used in the take-home essays. The questions will be placed on D2L on December 6th by 4pm and will be due one week later on D2L, December 13th, 2019 at 4pm via D2L. Take-home exams that are late will receive an F grade. Students are responsible for checking that they have uploaded the correct file – there will be no exceptions for incorrectly uploaded submissions.

Class Etiquette
Use of cell phones or internet on laptops distracts other students and the instructor and hence is not permitted. Based on previous feedback from students, the policy for this class will be that laptops without the use of internet is permitted, but that if laptops are used for other than taking notes, permission to use a laptop will be withdrawn.

Office Hours: During office hours you are free to drop by without an appointment at any time. If you are unable to make that time, please contact me in advance so that we can try to arrange an appointment. Office hours are a very effective and efficient way of providing help and I encourage all students to make use of my office hours.

Grade Reappraisal

Within two weeks of the date the exam/assignment is returned, students seeking reappraisal of examinations or assignments must submit a written response to the instructor explaining the basis for reconsideration of one’s mark. The instructor will reconsider the grade assigned and will then book a time with the student to discuss his or her work and rationale. It should be noted that a re-assessed grade may be raised, lowered, or remain the same.

Handing in Papers, Assignments

2. Protection of Privacy: The Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy (FOIPP) legislation does not allow students to retrieve any course material from public places.
