Course Description

Crime is a cultural mainstay in many societies, with considerable discussion centered on what should be done about crime and criminals. While there are a range of possible responses to the commission of crime, a great deal of emphasis is placed on incarceration as the definitive punitive response to criminal wrongdoing. In the face of declining crime rates since the 1990s, North America’s (both Canada’s and the United States’) incarceration rates remain high – higher than most Western democracies. Despite the prevalence of its use, incarceration has been subject to a range of criticisms on a number of fronts. Beyond the costs of incarceration, even more problematic is the effectiveness of imprisonment as a crime deterrent. While some might argue that imprisonment indeed does fight crime by keeping ‘dangerous’ individuals out of circulation for a specified period, others would argue that the threat of imprisonment does little to deter others from committing crimes, nor does it create law-abiding citizens.

Examining imprisonment and other forms of punishment as a formal response to crime requires that we carefully consider the underlying assumptions of punishment and the expectations that we have of particular forms of punishment. Punishment involves specific assumptions about offenders; assumptions about the impact of circumstances surrounding crimes (for example, the role of alcohol, bystanders, social position, relationships, etc.); and assumptions regarding the consequences or outcomes of particular types of punishment. Importantly, while philosophies of punishment may set the course of punishment in a particular direction, the practical application of punishment may in fact lead us to a much different place. Our primary focus in this class is on the sociological understanding of punishment and the implications of putting (and having put) punishment into practice.

Course Objectives/Learning Outcomes

The objectives in this course are to:

1. Understand assumptions about offenders as reflected in various punishment philosophies;
2. Consider how philosophies of punishment may be understood and critiqued sociologically;
3. Identify how particular philosophies of punishment are put into practice; and
4. Identify major issues related to punishment both in theory and in practice.

Methods of Assessment and Grading Weights

Evaluation for this course consists of three components: attendance and class participation; critical papers/book review; and a term paper.

1. Attendance and class participation: Students are expected to come to class prepared and ready to discuss the readings each week. Although each student is expected to read all the material, students will be responsible for leading the discussion associated with specific readings or specific chapters on assigned days. Responsibility for these readings will be determined the first week of class. This component is worth 20% of your final grade.

2. Book Review and Critical Papers: There will be four writing assignments due over the course of this semester. The book review will be on the Christie book. For the critical papers, you will be asked to answer a question that specifically addresses your readings. The schedule for these papers is as follows:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Assignment</th>
<th>Date Due</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Christie Book Review</td>
<td>January 27</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Critical paper #1</td>
<td>February 24</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Critical paper #2</td>
<td>March 16</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Critical paper #3</td>
<td>April 14</td>
</tr>
</tbody>

   Each of these four items is worth 10 marks, with this component comprising 40% of your final grade.

3. Term Paper: Term papers will consist of an in-depth examination of a specific punishment-related subject. For example, you may want to examine the notion of proportionality or “dangerousness” with reference to a particular crime or type of crime. Or, you may want to consider the theoretical implications of punishing specific groups – for example, environmentalists or war criminals. Your papers must include a thorough theoretical examination of the topic, as well as, where possible, empirical evidence. Further information with respect to the term papers will be provided in class. Term papers are due during the exam period (specific date to be determined), and are worth 40% of the final mark.
Final Exam Information
There is no final exam for this course.

Grading Scale

Grade Reappraisal
Within two weeks of the date the exam/assignment is returned, students seeking reappraisal of examinations or assignments must submit a written response to the instructor explaining the basis for reconsideration of one’s mark. The instructor will reconsider the grade assigned and will then book a time with the student to discuss his or her work and rationale. It should be noted that a reconsidered mark may be raised, lowered, or remain the same.

Handing in Papers, Assignments
1. The main Sociology Department office does not deal with any course-related matters. Please speak directly to your instructor.
2. Protection of Privacy: The Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy (FOIPP) legislation does not allow students to retrieve any course material from public places. Anything that requires handing back will be returned directly during class or office hours. If students are unable to pick up their assignments from the instructor, they can provide the instructor with a stamped, self-addressed envelope to be used for the return of the assignment. Private information related to the individual student is treated with the utmost regard by the faculty at the University of Calgary.
3. Final grades are not posted by the Sociology Department. They are only available online.

Research Ethics
Students are advised that any research with human subjects – including any interviewing (even with friends and family), opinion polling, or unobtrusive observation – must have the approval of the Faculty Ethics Committee. In completing course requirements, students must not undertake any human subjects research without discussing their plans with the instructor, to determine if ethics approval is required.

Copyright Legislation
All students are required to read the University of Calgary policy on Acceptable Use of Material Protected by Copyright (https://www.ucalgary.ca/policies/files/policies/acceptable-use-of-material-protected-by-copyright.pdf) and requirements of the Copyright Act (https://laws-lois.justice.gc.ca/eng/acts/C-42/index.html) to ensure they are aware of the consequences of unauthorized sharing of course materials (including instructor notes, electronic versions of textbooks etc.). Students who use material protected by copyright in violation of this policy may be disciplined under the Non-Academic Misconduct Policy.

Instructor Intellectual Property
Course materials created by professor(s) (including course outlines, presentations and posted notes, labs, case studies, assignments and exams) remain the intellectual property of the professor(s). These materials may NOT be reproduced, redistributed or copied without the explicit consent of the professor. The posting of course materials to third party websites such as note-sharing sites without permission is prohibited. Sharing of extracts of these course materials with other students enrolled in the course at the same time may be allowed under fair dealing.

Academic Misconduct
Please refer to the website listed below for information on University of Calgary policies on Plagiarism/Cheating/Other Academic Misconduct:
http://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/k.html

Absences and Deferrals
Students who are absent from class assessments (tests, participation activities, or other assignments) should inform their instructors as soon as possible. Instructors may request that evidence in the form of documentation be provided. If the reason provided for the absence is acceptable, instructors may decide that any arrangements made can take forms other than make-up tests or assignments. For example, the weight of a missed grade may be added to another assignment or test. For information on possible forms of documentation, including statutory declarations, please see https://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/current/m-1.html

Deferred Term Work Form: Deferral of term work past the end of a term also requires a form to be filled out. It’s available at:
https://live-ucalgary.ucalgary.ca/sites/default/files/teams/1/deferred_termwork15_0.pdf
Once an extension date has been agreed between instructor and student, the form should be taken to the Faculty of Arts Program Information Centre (SS 110) for approval by an Associate Dean (Students).

Academic Accommodation
Students seeking an accommodation based on disability or medical concerns should contact Student Accessibility Services; SAS will process the request and issue letters of accommodation to instructors. For additional information on support services and accommodations for students with disabilities, visit www.ucalgary.ca/access/. Students who require an accommodation in relation to their coursework based on a protected ground other than disability should communicate this need in writing to their Instructor. The full policy on Student Accommodations is available at:

Students needing an Accommodation based on a Protected Ground other than Disability, should communicate this need, preferably in writing, to the course instructor.

Wellness and Mental Health Resources
The University of Calgary recognizes the pivotal role that mental health plays in physical health, social connectedness and academic success, and aspires to create a caring and supportive campus community where individuals can freely talk about mental health and receive support when needed. We encourage you to explore the excellent mental health resources available throughout the university community, such as counselling, self-help resources, peer support or skills-building available through Student Wellness Services (Room 370 MacEwan Student Centre, https://www.ucalgary.ca/wellness-services/services/mental-health-services) and the Campus Mental Health Strategy (http://www.ucalgary.ca/mentalhealth/).

Student Success Centre
The Student Success Centre provides services and programs to ensure students can make the most of their time at the University of Calgary. Our advisors, learning support staff, and writing support staff assist students in enhancing their skills and achieving their academic goals. They provide tailored learning support and advising programs, as well as one-on-one services, free of charge to all undergraduate and graduate students. For more information visit: https://www.ucalgary.ca/student-services/student-success

Student Ombuds Office
The Student Ombuds Office supports and provides a safe, neutral space for students. For more information, please visit www.ucalgary.ca/ombuds/ or email ombuds@ucalgary.ca.

Student Representation
The Graduate Student Association VP Academic can be contacted at vpa.gsa@ucalgary.ca

For more information, and to contact other elected officials with the GSA, please visit this link: https://www.ucalgary.ca/pubs/calendar/grad/current/graduate-students-association-gsa-grad.html

Emergency Evacuation/Assembly Points
Assembly points for emergencies have been identified across campus. Assembly points are designed to establish a location for information updates from the emergency responders to the evacuees; from the evacuated population to the emergency responders. For more information, see the University of Calgary’s Emergency Management website:

Safewalk
Campus security will escort individuals, day or night, anywhere on campus (including McMahon Stadium, Health Sciences Centre, Student Family Housing, the Alberta Children's Hospital and the University LRT station). Call 403-220-5333 or visit http://www.ucalgary.ca/security/safewalk. Use any campus phone, emergency phone or the yellow phone located at most parking lot pay booths. Please ensure your personal safety by taking advantage of this service.
